Dear Mr. Skinner,

I am writing to formally report that Stratford General Hospital is not permitting patients to enter the building unless they wear a surgical mask — in clear violation of the medical, religious and human rights exemptions included in Ontario Regulation 364/20.

Masks have been proven ineffective in reducing viral infections by randomized control trials, as admitted by the Ministry of Health, yet have many known and potential harms.

Stratford is carrying out its unlawful “universal masking” policy to such an unjustifiable degree that they are refusing to allow my wife, Nicole Manley, to receive essential dialysis treatment. Since Tuesday, July 21 she has been receiving the same treatment at London University Hospital without a mask. However, she is no longer able to continue making the time-consuming trip to London.

Enclosed are copies of communications with the CEO of the Perth-Huron Health Care Alliance. The letters clearly state the lack of scientific evidence or legal justification for forcing patients and visitors to wear masks. The CEO has ignored these points and has stated his intent to force my wife to wear a mask if she returns to Stratford General.

She will be returning to Stratford General for treatment on Tuesday, November 3rd.
We ask that you immediately intervene to ensure that CEO Andrew Williams will abide by the exemption laws and permit Nicole to receive dialysis treatments at Stratford General without a useless and harmful face mask.

Dr. Andreas Voss, a microbiologist at the World Health Organization admitted that the WHO advised masking “not because of scientific evidence, but because of political pressure and public opinion.” People are welcome to their politics and their opinions, but please ensure they follow the law and protect people’s right to access publicly-funded healthcare without wearing an ineffective, demeaning and germ-breeding face covering.

Sincerely,

John C. A. Manley
