

RESISTING NEW NORMAL OPPRESSION
Every Civil Rights Movement
Begins With a Shunned 5%

John C. A. Manley | October 8, 2020

Back in June, the host of Canada Citizen's Forum, Jack Etkin, said to me something to the effect of: We're really in the minority, aren't we? Probably only 5% of people see through the COVID-19 hoax. 80% completely believe the official story. And 15% fall somewhere in between.

I had to admit I agreed with his math; but I still hold much hope.

If we went back a hundred years, to 1920 America, the numbers would probably be the same for the Civil Rights Movement: 5% opposed racism. 80% thought African Americans were an inferior race to be mistreated without conscience. And 15% hovered in between.

Today, however, 5% of people are probably true racists, 80% oppose racism, and 15% hover in an apathetic limbo.

If you spoke out against racism in the 1920s you would have been shunned and ridiculed — if you were lucky. We know that many brave people (both black and white) lost property, limbs and life standing up for racial equality. In contrast, with some geographical exceptions, people protesting racism today are

RESISTING NEW NORMAL OPPRESSION
Every Civil Rights Movement
Begins With a Shunned 5%

John C. A. Manley | October 8, 2020

Back in June, the host of Canada Citizen's Forum, Jack Etkin, said to me something to the effect of: We're really in the minority, aren't we? Probably only 5% of people see through the COVID-19 hoax. 80% completely believe the official story. And 15% fall somewhere in between.

I had to admit I agreed with his math; but I still hold much hope.

If we went back a hundred years, to 1920 America, the numbers would probably be the same for the Civil Rights Movement: 5% opposed racism. 80% thought African Americans were an inferior race to be mistreated without conscience. And 15% hovered in between.

Today, however, 5% of people are probably true racists, 80% oppose racism, and 15% hover in an apathetic limbo.

If you spoke out against racism in the 1920s you would have been shunned and ridiculed — if you were lucky. We know that many brave people (both black and white) lost property, limbs and life standing up for racial equality. In contrast, with some geographical exceptions, people protesting racism today are hardly going against the majority. Most people agree racism is bad — even the once racist media and government.

Yet with COVID-19, the majority of people believe in the hoax and applaud the governments for stripping them of their civil liberties — a view backed by every TV, radio and Wi-Fi connection.

So, like all great freedom movements, we are starting in the 5% minority. The 5% who will be ridiculed for speaking out against social distancing, face masks and lockdowns. The 5% who may even be jailed or segregated for refusing vaccinations.

Just as people of African descent were ostracized for fear that they spread diseases, now such unscientific bigotry has been extended to every human being — riding on the back of a “pandemic” no more deadly than the regular flu season. In 1920, African Americans were not allowed into many stores, restaurants, churches, public restrooms or even hospitals. In 2020, people without a mask are facing the same baseless discrimination.

We may be the shunned minority today, but the applauded majority tomorrow. How long will it take for such a tomorrow to arrive? That depends on how brave, active and persistent we are today.

About the Author: John C. A. Manley has spent over a decade ghostwriting for medical doctors, naturopaths and chiropractors. He currently writes the COVID-19(84) Red Pill Daily Briefs — an email based newsletter that questions and exposes the contradictions in the COVID-19 narrative and control measures. He is also writing a novel, Much Ado About Corona: A Dystopian Love Story. You can visit his website at: hardly against the majority. Most people agree racism is bad — even the once racist media and government.

MuchAdoAboutCorona.ca

Yet with COVID-19, the majority of people believe in the hoax and applaud the governments for stripping them of their civil liberties — a view backed by every TV, radio and Wi-Fi connection.

So, like all great freedom movements, we are starting in the 5% minority. The 5% who will be ridiculed for speaking out against social distancing, face masks and lockdowns. The 5% who may even be jailed or segregated for refusing vaccinations.

Just as people of African descent were ostracized for fear that they spread diseases, now such unscientific bigotry has been extended to every human being — riding on the back of a “pandemic” no more deadly than the regular flu season. In 1920, African Americans were not allowed into many stores, restaurants, churches, public restrooms or even hospitals. In 2020, people without a mask are facing the same baseless discrimination.

We may be the shunned minority today, but the applauded majority tomorrow. How long will it take for such a tomorrow to arrive? That depends on how brave, active and persistent we are today.

About the Author: John C. A. Manley has spent over a decade ghostwriting for medical doctors, naturopaths and chiropractors. He currently writes the COVID-19(84) Red Pill Daily Briefs — an email based newsletter that questions and exposes the contradictions in the COVID-19 narrative and control measures. He is also writing a novel, Much Ado About Corona: A Dystopian Love Story. You can visit his website at:

MuchAdoAboutCorona.ca